

Practical Case from the Food Industry

Fresh Fish

Kathryn A-M Donnelly

Traceability Workshop, Des Moines Iowa – June 11th 2009

Group exercises

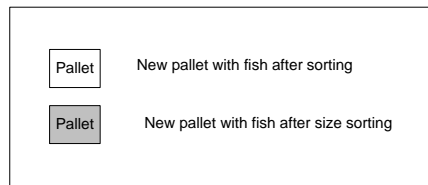

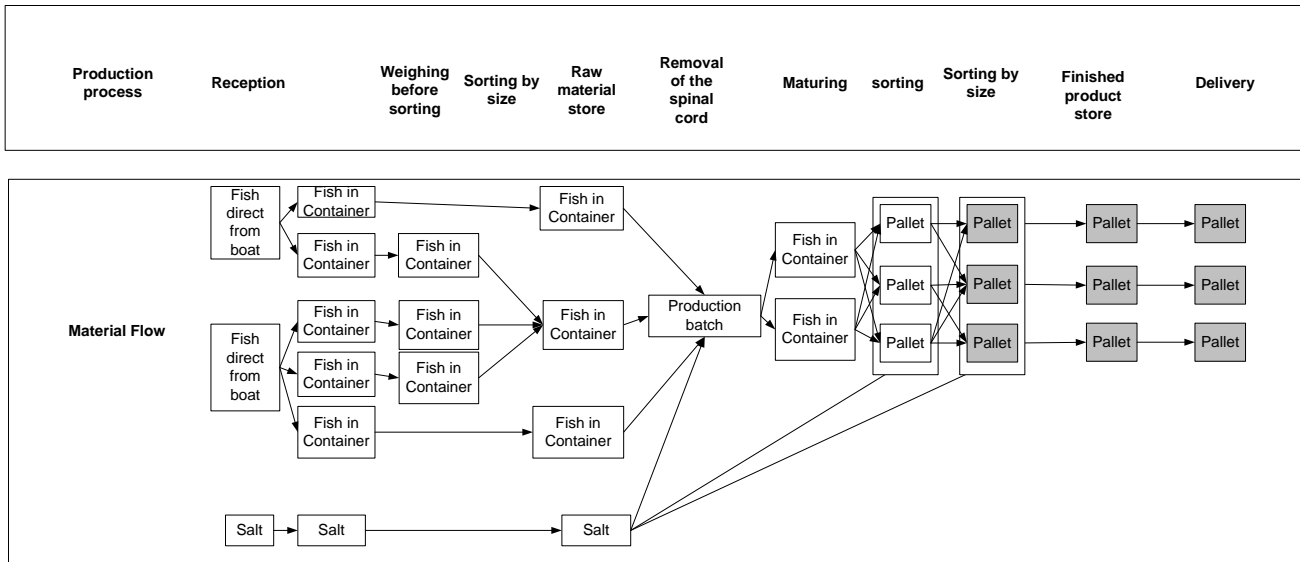

Nordmans fish processing company

Nordmans fish processing company receives fish deliveries from various sizes of boats each day. The deliveries are of fish of mixed sizes.

Nordmans want to improve internal stock control and also meet documentation requirements regarding the origin of the fish they are selling.

Nordmans will examine traceability within their company in an attempt to meet these needs.
