What is 4-H Shooting Sports?

The 4-H Shooting Sports curriculum is designed to assist young people in personal development, establish a personal environmental ethic and explore lifelong vocational activities. The program uses experiential learning and positive interaction with youth and adult role models to help young people develop self-concept, self-assurance and a positive self-image.

Core concepts stress safety, ethical development, personal responsibility and life-time recreational skills. The program promotes responsibility, decision-making, and identifying realistic personal goals.

Why does 4-H have a Shooting Sports program?

4-H uses Shooting Sports to teach youth development. Our programs are a valuable means for helping young people develop self confidence, personal discipline, responsibility, teamwork, self-esteem and sportsmanship. The discipline and self-control required for responsible firearms use carries over into many other aspects of life.

Program Objectives

- To enhance the physical, cognitive, social and emotional development of youth through safe, educational, and socially acceptable involvement in a shooting related activity.
- To teach safe and responsible use of firearms and archery equipment including sound decision-making, self-discipline, and concentration.
- To promote the highest standards of safety, sportsmanship and ethical behavior.
- To encourage understanding of our natural resources and the development of a personal environmental stewardship ethic by young people through participation in shooting, hunting, and related activities.
- To strengthen families through lifelong recreational activities.
- To complement and enhance the impact of existing safety and hunter education programs.
