About the Presenters

Mark H. Shour is an entomologist with Iowa State University Extension. He is responsible for pesticide safety education and implementation of integrated pest management principles for ornamentals (trees, shrubs, turf), greenhouses, and structural pests (households, businesses and schools). He also advises Iowa Department of Natural Resources – Forestry Bureau on insects affecting forest health issues.

Shour received his B.S. from Central Missouri State University (Biology/Chemistry; 1977), his M.S. from University of Arizona (Entomology; 1979) and his Ph.D. from Purdue University (Horticultural/ Urban Entomology; 1986). Shour is a certified arborist and has worked in the industry for more than five years in the eastern United States. He has been a high school science teacher, scientific writer, urban pest control specialist, and university researcher.

Shour can be reached by mail at 10 Insectary Building, Iowa State University, Ames, IA 50011-3140, phone at (515) 294-5963 or e-mail at mshour@iastate.edu.

Tivon Feeley holds a B.S. in Forestry with an emphasis in Forestry Management from Iowa State University. Feeley also obtained an M.S. in Forestry with an emphasis in Forest Pest Management, from Iowa State University in 2000.

Before returning to the Department as a Forestry Extension Specialist, he worked as a Diagnostician in the Plant Disease Clinic with the Department of Plant Pathology at ISU.

Feeley's responsibilities include program coordination for all Extension Forestry Urban and Community Forestry Programs and Youth Education Programs. Specific program responsibilities include the Iowa Community Tree Steward Program, Iowa Community Tree Workshop Program, Municipal Utilities workshops, Roadside Maintenance Workshops, and the Tree Steward Program For Youth. He also assists individuals with inquiries relating to urban and community forestry and woodland management and serves as liaison for numerous forestry organizations and can be reached at (515)-294-6739 or e-mail at cfeeley@iastate.edu.
