Western Iowa No-Till Issues

Soils in southwest Iowa are highly erodible making no-till a perfect fit. Of course, several issues face no-till farmers. Several specialists and practicing no-till farmers will address these issues, such as rotating crops, planting corn and soybeans into un-touched stubble, maximizing seed populations and seed depth, seed to soil contact, reducing your trips across your fields which will reduce soil compaction, fuel and labor. Please join us June 16 and see the benefits for yourself.
