

Bring “Color” to Your Year

Winter has definitely blown in and the landscape is white. Speaking of colors - “Color in the Garden” is the theme for 2009 ISU Extension Garden Calendar. Each month the calendar features a different color and suggests annuals, perennials and woody plants that can add that color to your garden as well as additional tips that show how to use the color wheel in your garden design.

It is a wonderful resource for gardening tips, publications, and horticulture help-lines. The spaces are big enough to write in, so you can also use it for a garden journal.

The calendar is a bargain at just $6. Pick one up today for yourself and all your green-thumbed friends. They are great for holiday gift giving, too! The 2009 Garden Calendar, PM 815, is available from local ISU Extension county offices or can be ordered from the ISU Extension Online Store at <https://www.extension.iastate.edu/store/> or at (515) 294-5247. (shipping and handling charges will be added)
