

4-H helps youth succeed.

Any child, whether living in a city, a town, or in the country can join a 4-H club. 4-H helps children get ready for the future. Members learn and practice how to be good leaders, good citizens, and good communicators. They are guided by adults who believe in them and care about them.

A 4-H club is a safe and well-managed environment. Club members take part in fun, hands-on learning that will help them in school. Kids can choose to learn many different things – from art to science. Kids learn how to be helpful in their community.

4-H is an organization that involves your entire family and the community where you live. Iowa State University Extension staff are eager to talk to you about 4-H.
