PASTURE MANAGEMENT GUIDE

FOR LIVESTOCK PRODUCERS

The guide was developed as an overview for livestock producers of cattle, sheep, and horses; agricultural advisors; teachers; and students. The 104-page color publication covers practices to increase production and returns by improving management of grassland.

It includes an introduction to rotational grazing, continuous grazing, and management intensive grazing (MIG) practices, with suggestions for those who are just thinking about adopting some grazing management changes and for those who have just begun a more intensive grazing management program.

Content includes evaluations of the varied species of pasture grasses, a glossary of pasture and grazing terms, planning worksheets, and a list of helpful resources.
