HAIL DAMAGE RECOVERY WEB SITE OFFERS CROP INFORMATION

ISU Extension has set up a hail damage and disaster recovery Web site in response to the needs of Iowa producers who need to make hail damage decisions. This site includes information on assessing crop damage, emergency forage, salvaging hail damaged crops, foliar fungicide, silage harvest issues, and grain harvest issues. The severe storm that hit northeast Iowa July 24 damaged crops in six counties. This weekend another storm caused hail damage between Highway 20 and Highway 175 from Ida Grove to Cedar Falls. The Web site can be accessed at:
