Home-Based Kitchen Operations

Iowans, who produce and sell goods from home, are known as home-based kitchen operators. House File 2431 (sometimes called the Cottage Food Law), passed in Iowa in June 2022, changed home-based kitchen operators' regulations and licensing information. It guides both cottage food operators and home food processing establishments by requiring licensing for home food processing establishments and broadens what can be produced and sold from their homes. Previously only home bakeries required licensing.

Iowa State University Extension and Outreach online training in food safety, food preparation, and Iowa rules and regulations designed specifically for both types of home-based kitchen operators. The Home-Based Food Operations: Food Safety and Regulations is offered in Moodle's 24/7 online learning management system. The modules are tailored to Iowa's laws and regulations and include food safety information that can be used in production and at the point of sale. Topics include food safety basics, labeling information, foodborne pathogens, foods that do and do not require temperature control for safety, and record-keeping. The training meets the requirement for obtaining a home food processing license.

Interested food businesses may register online. The cost of the training is $35. (Food businesses that completed the previous in-person and online versions before the training requirement for licensing may enroll at no cost.) Please contact Dr. Shannon Coleman at scoleman@iastate.edu or 515-294-9011 for more information.
