January’s snack: Mango

Did you know?

- Mangoes grow on trees. Some trees grow as tall as 100 ft.
- Mangoes ripen at room temperature. Put them in a paper bag to speed up the ripening process.
- The main producer of mangoes in the United States is Florida.

Health Connection

- Mangoes are rich in vitamin C, which helps our bodies fight infection & heal wounds.
- Mangoes contain more vitamin A than most fruits, which is important for healthy eyesight.
- Mangoes are also a good source of fiber. Fiber helps with digestion & helps us feel full longer.

Last month’s snack was broccoli & cauliflower. Kids were able to try them plain or with a ranch dip made with Greek yogurt.
