

Changes

Dear 4-H families and livestock exhibitors,

You may notice some changes around the grounds at the fair this year. The 4-H office will no longer be next to the static exhibit building (red and white) but will be in the sale barn right next to the northeast entrance of the fairgrounds or right across the road from the rabbit and poultry barns. Along with the fair office moving this year, there will be a new barn for the sheep and goats. They will be moving to the barn south of the show ring that the fair board has worked hard on fixing up for those exhibitors. To replace the sheep and goats in their old barn, all the bottle animals will be moving to the old sheep and goat barn just east of the show ring. In your packet are maps showing the new locations; contact extension office staff if you have any questions.
