

Workshop Description

The workshop will discuss concrete pit maintenance and constructions, truss management, roof and moisture management, and other repair and maintenance issues that can help protect the building and extend its life. The workshop will also cover a new way of making clean air enter into the attic space to minimize pit ventilated gases from entering the attic during periods of minimum ventilation during winter months. Workshop will also cover ways to maintain concrete slats including their repair to help enhance their usable life.

Who Should Attend?

Livestock producers, livestock building owners & contractors, engineers, designers, and others interested in swine building maintenance.
