What is the Iowa Premises Identification Program and how does it relate to Animal Disease Traceability?

- The Animal Disease Traceability Program is a national animal health program that is being developed by the USDA and state animal health agencies, in cooperation with industry. This program includes premises identification.
- Premises Identification involves assigning a unique number to premises involved in animal agriculture. Allied agricultural operations and non-producer participants can also be assigned Premises Identification Numbers.
- The Premises Identification will involve recording information such as addresses, names of contacts, the type of premises, and a contact phone number. This information will be maintained by IDALS and key pieces will be shared with the USDA to be available for animal disease tracing purposes.
- At present time, obtaining a premises identification number is completely voluntary. Premises Identification is done at no cost to the producer.
